WORTH WOMAN'S CLUB HEAD TELLS OF DRUNKENNESS AND OF WILD WOMEN AT PICNICS

Incensed by the drunkenness that is said to be going on in Worth, the Worth Women's Club has declared war on bootleggers in general and the following communication under the caption of tells what is doing in that village. "Worth, we do not understand your inconsistency; first you tell us the law compels you to let soft drink parlors operate within your gates even though you admit knowledge of the bootlegging and gambling that exists in these places, then when those who are foolish enough to accept your invitation and imbibe your vile stuff and get drunk, you are impolite to your guests and call them names 'drunken bums' and 'crazy greenhorns' in case they have made the offense of first opening their eyes on the other side of the pond. Most of us can boast of some foreign sprout on our family tree and it is no special offense. The real crime is in getting drunk and the first blame falls on you, Old Lady Worth, for allowing such places where people can get drunk. "We do not blame you for wanting them loaded up and hauled away so you can sleep, for a good many of us, your foreign children on the outskirts of your hospitable domain do not know what sleep is all thru your wet and noisy summer season.

"Moonshine Rays"

"If there is a certain class you object to cater to that effect and we are sure the poor bums or greenhorns will be better off physically, mentally and financially.

"We do not know if those who partake in drunken brawls at your picnic grounds are crazy foreigners or not but we know that they are drunk and again does not the fault lie with yourself? You know that the place reeks with wine and wild women and you close your eyes and thank God that you see no evidence of anything wrong.

"Let us tell you when you permit these places to operate within your limits you are a bigger offender than the outsider who comes there to revel and should your own sons or daughters frequent these places you only are to blame. Three cheers for the Worth Women's Club! May their work continue until Worth is as dry as the Sahara Desert!

Mrs. E. Bodin, Secretary,
Worth Women's Club.

BALLOON TIRES

Balloon tire here to stay—says Harry W. Bettenhausen, busy Tinley Park Seiberling dealer.

The balloon-type tire is now a staple in the market, stated Mr. Bettenhausen.

Until recently there was considerable disagreement as to the proper size of each type of car, the correct inflation and other details. The Seiberling Rubber Company however, with other large makers, have issued to dealers now, concise advice covering the balloon tire requirements of each make and model of car.

The heavy expense of wheel changeovers, to full balloon tires, has been drastically reduced also, so that a set of full balloons, complete with new wheels and rims, is reasonable in price.

Many local car owners, stated Mr. Bettenhausen, are adopting the interchangeable balloon type, which does not require new wheels, while others are continuing to use regular size tires, many of which are now designed to run at less air pressure than formerly.

Less air, more comfort, is the motorists desire.

It is the opinion of the Seiberling Rubber Co., that balloon tires will become markedly more popular, on changeovers, during August and the early fall months.

WANT MOKENA SALOONS TO REMOVE SHADES

Some of the good citizens of Mokena feel that Mokena should also follow the example set by the village board of Frankfort in demanding that the saloons remove all shades from windows so the entire interior of the saloon is visible to outsiders at any time of the day or night. It has been suggested that the women of Mokena petition the Mokena village board to pass an ordinance compelling the local saloonists to remove their shades same as the Frankfort saloonists have been obliged to do.

The women of Frankfort did not petition the village board of their town to take the action they did against the saloons in that town, so why should the Mokena city dads be asked or petitioned to do their duty?

MARLEY SHOWS WHAT COMMUNITY WORK REALLY MEANS

In this day and age when most of the young folks and for that matter the older ones too, are only out for a good time and give a tinkers darn about the good of their own community, it surely makes one to feel that there is some good in the old world after all when a small country church like the Marley Community church can suddenly boom forth in the summer months when things lag, with a wonderful program of community activity.

To begin with this church in a small country hamlet with only 44 members put on an intensive campaign a few weeks ago and has added over sixty new members to the church membership.

Not to be outdone by the sudden awakening of the older folks, the young folks of the community also bestirred themselves and organized The Marley Young Peoples' Club with 67 charter members. Meetings of a devotional and inspirational nature are held each Sunday night at 7:30 with an attendance of about 70. Each Tuesday night is "Fun Night" and the young folks meet at the church at 8 p. m. Games are played and a good time is enjoyed in general. The Marley church has the right vision for the church exists for the good of the community and not the community existing only for the church. This latter is the case only too often in many communities. The club officers are as follows:

President, Ralph Bell.
1st Vice-President, Dorothy Frazer.
2nd Vice-President, Ted Sproat.
Secretary, Harley Gillett.
Treasurer, Glen Sproat.
Planner, Evelyn Marshall.

In addition to its officers the club has the following live wire committees of which the following are the chairmen:

Program, Ruth Brown.
Look-Out, Beale Sproat.
Music, Carrie Kase.
Games, Francis Nelson.
Social, Gladys Nelson.
Library, Vergil Cortner.
Ushers, Robert Gillett.

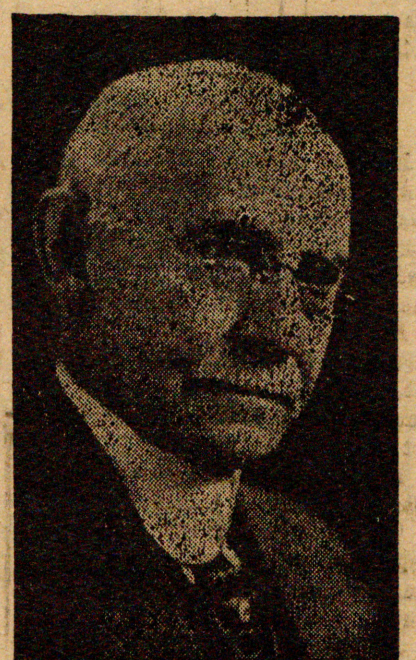

The young folks are planning to organize an orchestra and also expect to give plays and entertainments. All the young people of the community will be made welcome at any meeting of the club which is purely non-denominational and is a real community club with the big idea of fostering the true community spirit.

TINLEY PARK OFFICER SIEZES POKER "KITTY"

Officer Fred Schmediknecht of Tinley Park has opened war on all kinds of gambling and especially on poker games as was shown last Friday night. He surprised a little

ORRIN J. HOLBROOK BELL TELEPHONE OFFICIAL IS DEAD

Orrin J. Holbrook, assistant to the vice president of the Illinois Bell Telephone Company, died July 27 at his home, 525 Deming Place, Chicago, as the result of a cerebral hemorrhage suffered the previous day. The funeral services were held Thursday afternoon.

Mr. Holbrook, who was in his seventieth year, was born in Michigan and came to LaGrange, Ill., in 1891, entering the real estate business. In 1893 he assisted in the establishment of a telephone exchange in LaGrange and then entered the employ of the Chicago Telephone Company. For many years he was commercial superintendent and was active in developing exchanges in the Chicago Suburban Division, where he enjoyed a wide acquaintance. He is credited with having promoted the first rural telephone line in the United States. This was at New Lenox, Illinois in 1900.

He is survived by his widow, one son, and one daughter.

MOKENA M. E. CHURCH PLANS SUMMER ACTIVITY

The Mokena M. E. church is now planning to put on a program of summer activities and will start on the program next Sunday night, when an illustrated lecture "A Trip Around the World" illustrated with 72 slides. This is a companion lecture to the wonderful World Service Volume. Just as the book has had a reception at the hands of Methodism which surpasses that given any other document ever issued by the church, so this official World Service lecture is in unprecedented demand. In many areas they are scheduled months ahead.

In 72 slides a world view of Methodism is given. The lecture fittingly opens with the World Service Emblem, and a picture of John Wesley standing between the two hemispheres in the attitude of saying "The World Is My Parish." The financial needs of World Service are given and then these needs are interpreted in terms of the work at home and abroad.

To see and hear the World Service lecture is, in effect, a Methodist journey around the world. No church will ever be the same after having heard this lecture. If it is spiritually receptive to any appeal it will have a knowledge of and an interest in world wide Methodism, which no verbal or written description could ever provide. The lecture closes with illustrations of the World Service hymn, "A Charge to Keep I Have."

On the following Sunday it is being planned to present the familiar hymn "Calvary" illustrated with slides. Other features on the summer activity program will be announced later.

poker game and then confiscated the "kitty" containing $18. He warned the players that they would be arrested if caught again.

FULL MONTH ENCAMPMENT PLAN FOR NEXT YEAR AT NEW LENOX

The 1924 Epworth League Institute of the Joliet-Dixon District which has been in session on the historic New Lenox camp grounds the past week, is now a matter of local history, but the inspirations which the young folks received in Christian work will abide with them in the months and years to come.

Much interest was shown in the encampment just closed and a big program for a more elaborate and far reaching encampment for next year is already being mapped out now. The new program calls for a full month's encampment and the meet will be divided into four weekly periods. One week will be devoted to a retreat for the pastors and their families, another week is to be given over to religious convocation somewhat along the old time camp meeting lines while the fourth week will be set aside for other activities to be announced later.

Last Sunday afternoon at the close of the service, Rev. Mr. Davidson opened a drive to raise funds with which carry on improvements of the grounds for next year and save them from decay.

At the camp fire Saturday night diplomas were granted the first graduates in the history of the institute. The four young persons who completed the four-year course were Maude Martin, Joliet; Anna Anderson Morris; Nina Bartlett of Frankfort and Lois Palmer of Elwood.

Certificates were awarded 31 who finished the prescribed work for this year.

Saturday night's camp fire was attended by about 300 guests and is said to have been the best ever witnessed on the grounds.

After the audience had assembled, faculty members holding lighted candles approached the circle and sang "Let the Lower Lights Be Burning." At the close of the song they lighted the camp fire, symbolizing placing their lives at the service of the church. After certificates and diplomas were presented, those in attendance the 4 years gave testimony, life work recruits came forward and taking fagots from the hand of the Rev. Mr. Taylor, threw them onto the fire and sang "Blest Be the Tie That Binds." Miss Francis and Miss Mabel Thomas sang a solo "It Was Jesus."

At the close of the Institute on Sunday night, a two days school of Missions was held Monday and Tuesday, thus completing a full 10 days encampment.

Many old acquaintances were renewed during the encampment, but there was a tinge of sadness for some of the old and familiar faces once seen in other like meetings, are absent, having passed beyond to Him whom they came to worship in His great temple of out doors in the years that have passed away.

TO MUCH MOON CAUSES ARREST

Frank Starburg of Frankfort imbibed too much moonshine last Friday which made him angry at the world in general and it is alleged he used profane and indecent language on the streets in presence of women and children. A warrant was sworn out for his arrest but his friends got him over to Mokena hoping he would escape arrest. Justice Frank J. Kohlhaugen deputized Glenn Folker who at first went to the George Mager farm where Starburg was employed and failing to find him there he went to Mokena where he found and arrested him. He was taken before Justice Kohlhaugen who assessed him a fine of $10 and costs for being drunk and disorderly. Starburg refused to say where he bought the stuff that got him into trouble.

WILL COUNTY BOARD OFFERS $300 REWARD FOR MUELLER SLAYER

The Will County authorities are putting forth every effort to apprehend the slayer of constable Ernest Mueller of Frankfort. The sheriff's office has had hundreds of pamphlets printed containing the pictures and complete description of Ralph Miller of Niles, Michigan, the alleged slayer, which are being sent broadcast throught the country with the hope that they may lead to Miller's arrest.

The county board of Will County is going to vote a $300 reward for the apprehension of the slayer and will lend all of its power to vindicate the murder of Constable Mueller whose murder was one of the most cold blooded affairs that has occurred in Will County. It has been learned that the alleged fugitive slayer has committed many robberies throught the country and is a very dangerous man. A pal of his said to be serving a jail sentence in Davenport, Iowa now.

In the meantime, Grace Asbury, the alleged murder's accomplice is still being held in the Will County jail at Joliet to await the action of the grand jury which will meet in September.

MOKENA BANKER TO GIVE NEW LENOX SUBDIVISION IS RUMOR

New Lenox may become a real thriving village from present indications. It is reported that Geo. J. Hacker, cashier of the Mokena State bank has purchased the former Brodie land north of the Rock Island depot once owned by E. V. Maltby. Rumor has it that Mr. Hacker is contemplating laying the property out in a subdivision and if this is done it will undoubtedly be the upbuilding of New Lenox as this is an ideal building spot.

New Lenox Man

Is Wanted In Morris

Deputy Sheriff Henry Craven of New Lenox and Sheriff John Walker of Joliet have been seeking L. R. Deadmore of New Lenox at the request of Sheriff Mack of Grundy County who is holding a warrant for his arrest on a statutory charge made by the father of a Morris girl.

The New Lenox man who was in the employ of the Illinois Bell Telephone line gang, disappeared at 2 a. m. last Thursday morning from Morris for parts unknown in his automobile.

MISS BERTHA ZUMSTEIN OF MOKENA WEDS PLAINFIELD TEACHER

Miss Bertha Zumstein, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. L. Zumstein of Mokena, and Harry Devereaux, the latter a school teacher of Plainfield, were quietly united in marriage at Nau-au-say Thursday afternoon. The wedding was a very simple quiet affair, there being no attendants. Mr. and Mrs. Devereaux have gone on a motor honeymoon trip to Glenwood City, Wis. On their return they will reside in Plainfield.

AUTO WRECKED ON LINCOLN HIGHWAY

A Ford coupe bearing an Indiana license was wrecked on the Lincoln Highway near the Brick Tavern on the New Lenox road on Sunday morning when the car ran off the concrete into the ditch. The front wheel on the right hand side was torn off and the car was other wise badly wrecked. How the accident happened and if anyone was injured is not known as no report of the accident was made to the sheriff's office.

ORLAND FIRMS HAVE FULL PAGE OF LIVE ADS. IN THIS ISSUE

The News-Bulletin has had such a delightful surprise this week that we must let our readers in on it. For the first time since this paper has been published we have the pleasure of running a full page of display advertising from the business people of a single town without soliciting the advertising ourselves. This week we carry a full page of display advertising from Orland business firms all of which was turned in by the advertisers themselves. This shows that Orland business men know the worth of News-Bulletin advertising and they know their progressiveness will be rewarded with success.

Ku Klux Klan To Give Monster Benefit Picnic and Dance at Frankfort, Aug. 16

The Ku Klux Klan is making preparations for a big benefit picnic and dance to be held at the Borman Grove on August 16th for the family of the late Ernest Mueller, Frankfort policeman and constable who was shot and killed by a bandit a few weeks ago. The affair is a public one and everyone is invited to attend and help make it as big a success as possible.

RECOMMENDED BY HER DOCTOR

Found Strength by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Kankakee, Illinois.—"My mother-in-law always took your medicine for weakness, and then in the Change of Life it did her so much good that she induced me to take it for a weakness I had for a year and a half. It has strengthened me and now I have a nice baby boy. I do all my own housework now, and I recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound whenever I have the opportunity. I am taking it again for weakness, as my family doctor has recommended it for this purpose."—Mrs. HARRY COULOM, 984 N. Harrison Ave., Kankakee, Illinois.

Real Evidence of Merit

For the relief of female weakness, pains and backache, nervousness and irregularities, with other troubles common to women, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a dependable medicine. Its worth is thoroughly established by such letters as the above. There are women everywhere, who, having received benefit, gladly tell other women about it. For sale by druggists everywhere.

Foreign Birds in America

English starlings, 50 of which were released in Central park, New York, in 1890, are now common in all the Northeastern states; but until the last two or three years they have not gone South in any considerable numbers. They have spent their winters in the North, as the English sparrows do. But last autumn huge flocks went South; so it may be that they have learned to migrate in America as they usually do in Europe.

All the Difference

BACK ACHY?

Lame and achy in the morning? Tortured with backache all day long? No wonder you feel worn out and discouraged! But have you given any thought to your kidneys? Weak kidneys cause just such troubles; and you are likely to have headaches, too, with dizziness, stabbing pains and other kidney irregularities. Don't risk neglect! Use Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic to the kidneys. Doan's Pills have helped thousands. They should help you. Ask your neighbor!

An Illinois Case

Mrs. F. M. Levens, 32 W. Maple Ave., Downers Grove, Ill., says: "Boasting pains in my back sapped my strength so it was hard to work around the house. Mornings I felt lame and stiff all over. My kidneys didn't act right and I had headaches, too. I was run down and worn out. Doan's Pills made a lasting cure."

HOW TO KEEP WELL

Dr. Frederick R. Green,
Editor of "Health."

(©, 1924, Western Newspaper Union.)

HOW TO LIVE A HUNDRED YEARS

How long are you going to live? That depends largely on how you are living now.

The old idea was that every man's life was of a predetermined length and that when his time came he died.

A hundred years ago the average length of life was only a little over twenty-five years. Ten years ago it was forty-six and a half years. Today it is fifty-five years.

What is it going to be in the next fifty years?

The statistician of a large life insurance company says that ten years could be added to the average length of life if the low death rate in certain parts of the country could be applied to the whole population.

In the last fifty years contagious diseases, such as smallpox, malaria, typhoid fever, yellow fever, tuberculosis and others, which formerly were the chief causes of death, have been greatly reduced and in some cases practically wiped out.

The increased length of life today is largely due to the reduced mortality from children's diseases.

The great reduction in the next generation is probably going to come from better personal habits.

The human body is an intricate and delicate machine.

The better care it has the longer it will last.

We take better care of our bodies than our forefathers did, yet many of us shorten our lives by bad personal habits, partly due to ignorance, partly to carelessness, and partly to unnatural conditions of present-day life.

Primitive man did not need to take exercise; he got all he needed hunting his breakfast. He did not need to regulate his diet; he ate everything he could get and was lucky if he got enough.

Today we use our brains too much and our muscles too little.

In order to keep fit, our muscles must have a certain amount of work each day. The farmer and the laboring man get all the exercise they need, but the professional man, the business man, the clerk and the office employee need muscular exercise to keep fit.

A warm bath in the morning, a light breakfast and a brisk walk to work give one a clear head for the day's tasks.

A reasonable day's work; simple food; a quiet, restful evening, and to bed and asleep by ten o'clock.

The man who follows this program will have little to fear from sickness and should live to a ripe and happy old age.

A CHEAP AND EASY OBESITY CURE

OVERWEIGHT is a besetting sin of the American people. This is shown by the numerous "obesity cures," "reduction treatments" and other methods of getting thin, which are widely advertised.

Fat is simply the surplus food which the body cannot use and consequently stores away.

Where does this fat come from? From unnecessary food, which has been eaten by the thoughtless or gluttonous person, who is unable to control his appetite.

In spite of alluring advertisements, there is just one effective and harmless way of reducing one's weight.

It can't be done by anything put up in a bottle or a powder or a box. It can only be done by limiting the amount of food to what the body actually needs and by increasing the amount of work to a point where the muscular activity burns up the surplus fuel.

This process doesn't require an enormous amount of self-control or self-denial. All that is necessary is to cut out the unnecessary foods and so to plan the diet as to furnish enough fuel without too much fat-forming food.

Cutting out cream and sugar from your coffee and substituting whole wheat bread for white bread will enable you to reduce your weight in six weeks' time from 10 to 15 pounds. The plain coffee tastes better and the whole wheat bread satisfies better than the white and one slice will do the work of two of white. This means that you will eat only half as much bread and half as much butter, while the bread that is eaten is not as fat-producing as white bread.

Substituting leafy vegetables, such as lettuce, cabbage, spinach, cauliflower and others, for the starchy vegetables, such as potatoes, peas and beans, is good for a reduction of another 15 or 20 pounds.

By this time the health and beauty seeker has not only gotten rid of the fat deposits under the skin and around the muscles which interfered with their efficiency, as well as the fat deposits around the intestines and the heart, which were hampering their action, but he has also found that all his friends are commenting on his vastly improved appearance.

And for this safe and sure "obesity cure" he hasn't had to pay five cents to anybody. On the contrary, he has saved money.

Use common sense and take your own obesity cure.

WHIPPET TANKS DEFEAT REBELS

Brazil Federals Win Twenty-Three Day Battle for City of Sao Paulo.

Buenos Aires.—After 23 days of almost continuous fighting the Brazilian rebel forces evacuated the city of Sao Paulo under pressure of the government besieging army, which is now in possession of the entire city. This information is contained in official announcement made by the Brazilian war office. The rebels fled in special trains toward the interior and are being pursued. Their only avenues of escape are to the west and the northwest, and the government asserts that its troops in these regions already are in positions to deal with them. The withdrawal of the rebels from Sao Paulo followed severe fighting inside the city on Sunday. The rebels appear to have made a desperate effort to hold back the government advance, but failed.

At daybreak Monday the federal forces brought whippet tanks into play against the rebels. The rebels already had begun their evacuation when this assault was made. The federals took numerous prisoners, but the rebel leaders, including Gen. Isidoro Lopez, escaped. It is reported that the rebel major Miguel Costa failed to escape and committed suicide.

When the federals took possession of the city at noon the governor, Carlos Campos, who had been deposed by the rebels, resumed his office. Official reports received here from Brazil describe the inhabitants of the battered state capital as having greeted the federal forces with rejoicing.

Washington.—Withdrawal of the revolutionary forces from Sao Paulo and the occupation of that city by Brazilian government forces was announced in advices received by the State department. The department's advices were based upon dispatches from the admiral commanding the Brazilian naval forces, which said all Americans in Sao Paulo were found to be safe.

Ford Sales Increases 15 Pct.; Lincolns Gain 42 Pct.

Detroit, Mich.—Excluding Sundays and holidays and figuring full operation for 24 hours each day, the Ford Motor company made and sold nearly 5 cars, including Fords, trucks, tractors and Lincolns, every minute of the first six months of this year, establishing a new high record. Total sales of all units during the period was 1,074,227. Of this number 1,026,978 was of Ford cars and trucks, an increase over the same period a year ago of 15 per cent, and 4,015 was of Lincolns, an increase of 42 per cent. Tractor sales were at about the same rate as a year ago, the total being 43,234.

I. C. C. Suspends Date on Train Control Order

Washington.—The Interstate Commerce commission modified its automatic train control order by suspending indefinitely the effective date of that order. The case involves 42 roads named to install automatic train control devices by February 1, 1926. At the same time the commission's original order, which required 49 roads to install devices by January 1, 1925, was modified so as to permit the use of the permissive or manual control feature in connection with automatic devices.

Farmers Reject Chicago Grain Marketing Plan

Des Moines, Iowa.—The National Farmers Grain Dealers' association, in which 5,000 grain elevators in the Middle West hold memberships, refused to endorse the recently organized Grain Marketing company of Chicago. The association declared it would continue to withhold its endorsement until the grain merger's organization plans were modified to provide that all stock must be held by farmers' elevator companies and not by individuals.

Chicago Bandits Cow 20 Hotel Clerks and Guests

Chicago.—Four young men entered the lobby of Hotel Hayes, an exclusive residential hotel, pulled revolvers, threatened clerks and guests, and dashed out with four cash boxes containing $2,500. The bandits escaped in an auto, but were picked up by a flivver squad, as speeders, after a chase, during which several bullets were fired. The money was recovered and one of the alleged robbers was arrested. The others made a getaway.

Hogs Up to $10.60

Chicago.—Hog prices in the Chicago market leaped 40 to 80 cents per hundred weight Monday, registering one of the most sensational upturns in the history of the local stockyards. Best grades sold up to $10.60.

SILENCE

M. ROMAIN ROLLAND in "Jean Christophe," in describing Rosa Euler and her garrulous family, says: "Always her shrill voice was heard in the house telling stories, always breathless, as though she had no time to say everything, always excited and animated, in spite of the protests which she drew from her mother, her father, and even her grandfather, exasperated, not so much because she was forever talking as because she prevented them talking themselves. For these good people, kind, loyal, devoted—the very cream of good people—had almost all the virtues, but they lacked one virtue which is capital, and is the charm of life: the virtue of silence."

My father used to say when we were all chattering away and he found it difficult to keep us quiet, or when a more than ordinarily talkative neighbor had finished his call, that in all his life he had never been sorry he had eaten too little or talked too little, and my father was on the whole a rather quiet man. I believe the most common and frequent admonition which I received in childhood, and my admonitions were not few, was to hold my tongue, and so far as I have been able to carry out this suggestion I have found it profitable. I have found out much more that I have wanted to know by listening and keeping silent than by talking and asking questions. When you talk to a man and ask him direct questions, you often shut him up and make him suspicious. However much one talks and however much about any topic one knows, I have found, too, that it is the part of wisdom to keep a little in reserve—never to tell quite all that one knows, just as in the matter it is wiser to keep a little balance in the bank. George Eliot, in "Adam Bede," I believe it is, says that it is a test of friendship that two people may walk or sit together for an hour and yet say nothing nor feel any desire or obligation to do so.

It is not easy to keep silent under a taunt, or when an argument is going on or matters are being discussed about which we may know more perhaps than those who are conducting the discussion, but it is often far wiser to do so.

Silence is often more eloquent and more illuminating than speech. It shows not infrequently more self-possession, more poise, more restrained feeling. Rolland expresses it:

"Ah! It is good to be silent," Christophe said, stretching his limbs.

"And talking is no use!" Sabine answered.

"Yes," returned Christophe, "we understand each other so well!" They lapsed into silence.

REDEEMING THE TIME

"THE chemistry building is full today," an undergraduate said to me late in May as we were walking past that structure.

"What's the show?" I asked.

"Oh, it's the loafers and the procrastinators trying to make up for lost time. A good lot of fellows plan to do most of their work the last three weeks of the semester."

It is a misconception not confined to youth that if you let opportunity go by you, you can catch her easily by cutting round the corner.

"My son failed in two subjects last semester," a father wrote to me this week. "Since he has now got the hang of the college, will it not be possible next semester for him to carry these two subjects in addition to his regular course? The subjects he failed in ought to be easy for him now." Having carried but half their work one semester, most loafers feel confident that they can easily carry four times as much the next.

"I can make it up before the end of the semester." "When I get out of college I shall find time for all these things." "After I am married I intend to cut out all my bad habits." How familiar these things sound. It seems a simple matter to redeem our lost time. If we have social or intellectual or moral delinquencies we expect, all of us, to atone for them in the near future, and the longer we put it off the easier, often, it seems of accomplishment.

Every sinner condones his evil life by promising himself that he will ere long become a saint; every loafer expects soon to brace up and get down to hard work and win success. Every intellectual delinquent looks forward to the time when his studies will be creditably completed; every failure sits in the shade and dreams of the time when he will have become a world-beater. We all expect, no matter how late the day, to redeem the lost opportunity; but it is next to impossible.

There is not a young person today, if he amounts to anything, who will ever have as much leisure time as he has at this moment, who will ever have as easy a chance to be wise and good and happy as he has today. The time and the opportunity that are lost are seldom, if ever, redeemed. Those who wait until the last to do their work, to make their reforms, usually fail. It is an old, old cry, this: "The harvest is past, the summer is ended, and I am not saved." The time that is lost is seldom, if ever, redeemed.

Scorching Days in the Harvest Fields seem shorter when a jug of this refreshing drink is kept on hand

EVERYBODY knows the trick of putting oatmeal in the water jug to prevent the water getting flat and stale.

But here's a better scheme than that. Let Farm House Cocoa take the place of oatmeal. Then when you're tired, hot and thirsty, the contents of the water jug will be as welcome as the ringing of the supper bell at night. Fix up a gallon jug according to directions. Keep it in a shady spot where you can reach it easily. Then see how it refreshes after hardest labor. When once you've made this test you'll thank us for the tip. Let tomorrow be the day to try it out.

FARM HOUSE
AMERICAN PROCESS
COCOA
Quality for 70 Years

How to Make It

1 pound Farm House Cocoa, 4 pounds sugar, 2½ quarts boiling water, 1 teaspoon salt. Mix sugar, cocoa and salt, add boiling water, stirring constantly. Boil five minutes. This syrup will keep almost indefinitely in cool place, and is sufficient to make ten gallons of delicious beverage merely by adding cold water in the proportion of six quarts of water to one pint of syrup. The use of part milk adds richness.

Walrus Tusks Prized

Ivory carving is becoming a lost art among the Eskimos of Alaska and the ornately carved walrus tusks are much prized by collectors. A generation or so back the artisans who did this work were quite numerous, but they have gradually passed away and the young men have not learned to do it.

Trees on Roadside

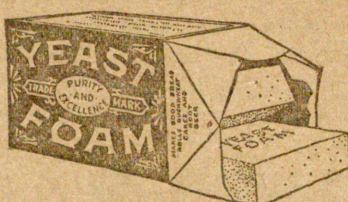

In the vicinity of some cities and towns in Oregon systematic efforts in tree planting have been inaugurated along the highways, says Nature Magazine. A good example of this is near The Dalles, where the Kiwanis club has planted about two miles of trees just approaching the city.

Elderly Woman Golfer

Among the competitors in a women's golf tournament held in England was Mrs. Hezlet, seventy-seven years old, who entered the tournament to maintain her record of having played in every one of that series since it was instituted 31 years ago. Mrs. Hezlet gave a spirited display, being beaten by only 4 up and 3 to play.

A Lady of Distinction

Is recognized by the delicate, fascinating influence of the perfume she uses. A bath with Cuticura Soap and hot water to thoroughly cleanse the pores followed by a dusting with Cuticura Talcum powder usually means a clear, sweet, healthy skin.—Advertisement.

Modern Method

Diner—Here, waiter, bring me a spoon for my coffee.
Waiter—Sorry, sir, but we don't serve them—the music here is so stirring.

Note what happens when "charges are preferred." Aren't they forgotten, nine times out of ten?

Automatic Booking Clerk

An electrically operated automatic passimeter is now in use at several of the London underground railway stations.

When the passenger has inserted the proper number of coins, the device issues a dated ticket, releases the turnstile, registers the passenger on a recorder, and locks the turnstile after he has passed through.

Horrible Thought

"Isn't that terrible?"
"Oh, I don't know. I haven't any sympathy."

MOKENA

Walter Fisher, general merchant of Mokena attended the big semi-annual convention of the Interstate Merchants Council held on Tuesday and Wednesday in the grand ball room, Red room and East room of the Hotel LaSalle, Chicago.

This convention was held under the auspices of the Domestic and Foreign Commerce Committee of the Chicago Association of Commerce.

A number of successful merchants and business experts gave interesting and helpful pointers on many problems of the merchant. Advertising as a business builder came in for much discussion and many of the live merchants present showed how advertising built their business.

On Tuesday night the guests of the convention enjoyed a moonlight excursion on the steamship "Florida."

NEW LENOX

For the second time in less than two years fire Monday night attacked the barn of John McCarthy on the former Sidney Batson farm southwest of New Lenox. The entire building together with a large quantity of hay and grain burned.

The Joliet fire department was called to the farm and succeeded in saving the remaining farm buildings and the McCarthy home.

About six o'clock Monday evening fire was noticed shooting thru the roof of the barn, a new building. Neighbors were summoned and a bucket line was formed in a vain attempt to check the flames.

The loss is estimated at approximately $5,000 and the entire loss is said to be covered by insurance.

A. Walsh has completed a new oil station, restaurant, and ice cream parlor at the corner of the Lincoln highway and the hard road running north and south. This will be an ideal corner as it is near to the Rock Island depot.

WALTER P. CHRYSLER'S TRAFFIC TALKS

J. Clyde Myton, secretary of the Pennsylvania Motor Federation, pointed out recently that unless some practical means can be found for getting pedestrians and motorists to co-operate in a more practical way, insurance rates for the pedestrian as well as the motorist will increase.

Insurance companies have announced that unless some means be found to render motoring safer, rates will have to be raised on liability, property damage and collision insurance.

If the man who walks and the man who rides will both be more careful many of the motorists' and pedestrians' problems will be solved. What is needed is co-operation.

L. B. Southerland, chairman of the Chicago Automobile Trade Association's safety committee, believes in the regulation of pedestrians as well as in the regulation of motorists.

"Some arrangement should be made for the regulation of the pedestrian, especially in the shopping and business districts," he says.

"It would make it much better if pedestrians were required to remain on the sidewalk in those districts until all vehicle traffic halted."

Mr. Southerland is right in his opinion. The pedestrian should be guided by the regulations for traffic just like the motorist. Traffic rules should control the pedestrian for his own good.

On alighting from a street car or other vehicle observe traffic before moving.

Enter and leave a car-stop safety zone at crosswalk only.

Use crossings when crossing from one side of the street to the other. "Jay-walking"—i. e., crossing in the middle of the block or diagonally at a crossing, is the commonest cause of accidents.

A study of traffic will soon convince one that the time is coming when pedestrians, for their own safety, must be subjected to regulations as is the motorist now.

In coming from behind street cars make sure there are no approaching automobiles.

In crossing a street don't obstruct your view with an umbrella. The middle of the street is not a safe place to read a newspaper.

Parents should constantly warn their children not to steal rides on the backs of motor cars and trucks. Roller skating in the street is a dangerous pastime.

Bicyclists who weave in and out of traffic are flirting with trouble. If you must ride a bicycle ride in a straight line.

Most accidents to pedestrians occur between the hours of 3 and 6. During those hours pedestrians must be unusually careful and so must motorists.

Marley News

346 TICKETS SOLD AT RECORD FRANKFORT DANCE

The Frankfort Industrial had a real record breaking dance last Saturday night when 346 tickets were sold, being the largest number of tickets sold at a single dance since the club has been organized.

ON WITH THE DANCE

Wm. Ramey of Orland is offering a special attraction at his dance hall west of Orland this coming Saturday night by way of an eight piece colored tempo orchestra, the first colored musicians to be heard at a local dance. This orchestra is coming well recommended so all should have a good time.

The Mokena Men's Club will be on deck this Saturday night with a dance and the music will be furnished by Weisser's 8 piece orchestra of Chicago who made such a hit at the last dance that they had to be re-engaged for this dance to satisfy the patrons.

POPULARITY OF THE FEDERAL RESERVE

Test Shows Small Country Banks as Well as City Banks Strongly Favorable.

Assertions by some politicians that small banks generally are inimical to the Federal Reserve System were put to the test recently by a committee appointed by John D. Phillips, president of the State Bank Division of the American Bankers' Association by means of a questionnaire sent to 11,000 state banks. The result indicated that an overwhelming majority of them are, in fact, friendly to the System.

Two questions were put to the banks. The first was as follows:

"Do you believe that the Federal Reserve System has been beneficial to the agricultural, commercial and banking interests of the country and that it should be perpetuated?"

To this 4,934 replies were received. Of these 4,024 voted "yes" without qualification, and only 61 voted "no." Further answers still coming in when this tabulation was made indicated the same favorable trend.

The second question asked by Mr. Phillips' committee was:

"If your not being a member should contribute to the destruction of the System, would you join?"

While the great majority of the state banks are not members of the System, largely for technical reasons, the answers showed that the bulk of those non-members who are eligible to join would do so if such action were necessary to save the System. To his second question 2,876 have been recorded as voting "yes" and only 725 as "no." Many refrained from voting on this question because under the present rules they are ineligible for membership.

Some replies voiced certain criticisms of the System, but these universally dealt with details of administration or of the rules and not with the principles of the institution.

RECONSTRUCTION

A man came into a Nebraska bank in the spring of 1922 and asked for financial assistance. His statement prepared in the Service Department showed he was about bankrupt; that he owed $1,200 more than his equipment was worth. He had a farm rented for the year. Further credit had been refused him in his own bank and he was about ready to quit and apply the proceeds from the sale of his equipment to his debts.

The bank's Service Man went with him to his farm and after an examination decided that it was better to have a half dozen cows and ten brood sows he would probably be able to use his pasture and intended corn crop to advantage. The bank finally loaned him $1,200 for this purpose and took a chattel mortgage on the stock purchased as its security. The bank admitted that ordinarily a loan should not be made like that, but the farm was close to town and the stock could readily be resold.

When the end of the year came around the exact records showed that the family had been well maintained and on half of the cream checks; the other half had been applied on his $660 note at the bank, covering the loan for the cows. Five days before the year was up the principal and interest on the note were entirely paid by cream checks. The pigs afforded a net gain of $1,400 after all expenses were paid.

In addition to this financial gain, the farmer was taught the value of a good cow and the necessity of keeping a record of his operations to know which farm operations are profitable. The Farm Service Department of the bank was able to teach this man things he had never dreamed about. It is worth the effort the banks would be called upon to make if each bank could but turn one broken, discouraged farmer into a prosperous one.—Banker-Farmer.

Value Behind Securities

No. 6 in a series of statements about this Company's business

The announcement that the Public Service Company of Northern Illinois has been awarded the Charles A. Coffin Medal for 1923, is a tribute to the territory in which this Company operates as well as to the service it renders.

This award was made to this Company in competition with the electric light and power companies of the United States "for distinguished contribution to the development of electric light and power for the convenience of the public and the benefit of the industry".

THE value of the physical assets behind the securities of a company is one of the first things the conservative investor inquires into.

The value of the property used and useful in the public utility functions of this Company was found to be $60,759,000 as of January 1, 1923, by the Illinois Commerce Commission in entering its final order in the Company's rate proceedings.

The Company at that time had other properties such as its water power sites, coal properties and other assets valued by the Company at $8,088,255 which were not included in the Commission's valuation because they were not used in actual production of service.

The Company's total properties, therefore, had at that time a combined value of $68,847,255 and this total has since been increased because the Company has added materially to its properties.

It is interesting to note that the total valuation above mentioned after allowing par for each bond outstanding and each share of preferred stock gave a property value of $131 for each share, par and no par, of common stock.

THIS PRESCRIPTION FOR KIDNEYS

No Drugs—Just Roots and Herbs

6 Ounce Bottle, 75 cents

Years ago Dr. Carey said, "When backache comes get after your kidneys—and don't waste any time." "Right at the start, go to your druggist and ask for Dr. Carey's Marshroot Prescription No. 777; take it as directed until backache ceases and your eyes are clear and bright."

For more than 40 years Dr. Carey specialized in diseases of the kidney and bladder, and when in the height of his remarkably busy life he decided to dispense his most effective kidney and bladder prescription through the better druggists, he helped thousands who could not afford to go to him for treatment.

Thousands of unobservant people have kidney ailments and never know it until too late. High colored urine, getting up in the night, and puffy eyes tell the story.

If you even suspect—start today with Dr. Carey's Marshroot Prescription No. 777. It will drive the poison from your kidneys and your druggist knows all about it.

Druggists dispense lots of it. It comes both in liquid and tablet form. It will help you as it has a host of others. If it should not, if you aren't glad in one week's time that you bought it, money gladly returned—and only 75c. If your local druggist hasn't it he can get it from the Carey Medical Laboratories at Elmira, N. Y.

First Speedway in France

The first motor speedway ever constructed in France is now being built near Marseilles, and will be one of the most thrilling courses in the world. Several hairpin turns will have to be negotiated, and sharp curves are the rule rather than the exception.

ASTHMA AND HAY FEVER A GUARANTEED RELIEF

"I have arranged with all druggists here, as well as in all other towns of the U. S., that every sufferer from Asthma, Hay Fever, Bronchial Asthma or difficult breathing can try my treatment entirely at my risk," Dr. R. Schiffmann announces. He says: "Buy a package of my Asthmador, or cigarettes, try it, and if it does not afford you immediate relief, or if you do not find it the best remedy you have ever used, take it back to your druggist and he will return your money cheerfully, and without any question whatever. After seeing the grateful relief it has afforded in hundreds of cases, which had been considered incurable, and which had been given up in despair, I know what it will do. I am so sure that it will do the same with others that I am not afraid to guarantee it will relieve instantaneously. Certainly more positive proof can thus be demonstrated than a 'free sample' could possibly prove. Also sent on same guarantee, per parcel post, C. O. D., or on receipt of price, 65c, if not kept by your druggist, by addressing R. Schiffmann Co., 1734 N. Main, Los Angeles, Calif."—Adv.

WOMEN NEED SWAMP-ROOT

Thousands of women have kidney and bladder trouble and never suspect it. Women's complaints often prove to be nothing else but kidney trouble, or the result of kidney or bladder disease. If the kidneys are not in a healthy condition they may cause the other organs to become diseased. Pain in the back, headache, loss of ambition, nervousness are oftentimes symptoms of kidney trouble. Don't delay starting treatment. Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, a physician's prescription, obtained at any drug store, may be just the remedy needed to overcome such conditions. Get a medium or large size bottle immediately from any drug store. However, if you wish first to test this great preparation, send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention this paper.—Advertisement.

"So here I am on the ship L'Etoile and almost in sight of Boston harbor, bringing help and comfort to our great chief.

"I was presented to the king and queen. Of him I have written—a stout, fat-faced man, highly colored, with a sloping forehead and large gray eyes. His coat shone with gold embroidery and jeweled stars. His close-fitting waistcoat of milk white satin had golden buttons and a curve which was not the only sign he bore of rich wine and good capon. The queen was a beautiful, dark-haired lady of some forty years, with a noble and gracious countenance. She was clad in no vesture of gold, but in sober black velvet. Her curls fell upon the loose ruff of lace around her neck. There were no jewels on or about her bare, white bosom. Her smile and gentle voice, when she gave me her bon-voyage and best wishes for the cause so dear to us, are jewels I shall not soon forget.

"Yes, I had a little talk with Margaret and her mother, who walked with me to Franklin's house. There, in his reception room, I took a good look at the dear girl, now more beautiful than ever, and held her to my heart a moment.

"I see you and then I have to go," I said.

"It is the fault of my too romantic soul," she answered mournfully. "For two days we have been in hiding here. I wanted to surprise you."

"She lifted the jeweled cross I wore to her lips and kissed it. I wish that I could tell you how beautiful she looked then. She is twenty-six years old and her womanhood is beginning."

CHAPTER XXV

The Horse of Destiny.

In Boston harbor, Jack learned of the evacuation of Philadelphia by the British and was transferred to a Yankee ship putting out to sea on its way to that city. There he found the romantic Arnold, crippled by his wounds, living in the fine mansion erected by William Penn. He had married a young daughter of one of the rich Tory families, for his second wife, and was in command of the city. Colonel Irons, having delivered the letters to the treasurer of the United States, reported at Arnold's office. It was near midday and the general had not arrived. The young man sat down to wait and soon the great soldier drove up with his splendid coach and pair. His young wife sat beside him. He had little time for talk. He was on his way to breakfast. Jack presented his compliments and the good tidings which he had brought from the Old Country. Arnold listened as if he were hearing the price of codfish and hams.

The young man was shocked by the coolness of the commandant. The former felt as if a pail of icy water had been thrown upon him when Arnold answered:

"Now that they have money I hope that they will pay their debt to me."

This kind of talk Jack had not heard before. He resented it, but answered calmly: "A war and an army is a great extravagance for a young nation that has not yet learned the imperial art of gathering taxes. Many of us are going unpaid, but if we get liberty it will be worth all its costs."

"That sounds well, but there are some of us who are also in need of justice," Arnold answered as he turned away.

"General, you who have not been dismayed by force will never, I am sure, surrender to discouragement," said Jack.

The fiery Arnold turned suddenly and lifting his cane in a threatening manner said in a loud voice:

"Would you reprimand me—you d-d upstart?"

"General, you may strike me, if you will, but I cannot help saying that we young men must look to you older ones for a good example."

Very calmly and politely the young man spoke these words. He towered above the man Arnold in spirit and stature. The latter did not commit the folly of striking him, but with a look of scorn ordered him to leave the office.

Jack obeyed the order and went at once to call upon his old friend, Governor Reed. He told the governor of his falling out with the major general.

"Arnold is a sordid, selfish man and a source of great danger to our cause," said the governor. "He is vain and loves display and is living far beyond his means. To maintain his extravagance he has resorted to privateering and speculation, and none of it has been successful. He is deeply involved in debt. It is charged that he has used his military authority for private gain. He was tried by a court-martial, but escaped with only a reprimand from the commander in chief. He is thick with the Tories. He is the type of man who would sell his master for thirty pieces of silver."

"This is alarming," said Jack.

"My boy an ill wind is blowing on us," the governor went on. "We have all too many Arnolds in our midst. Our currency has depreciated until forty shillings will not buy what one would have bought before the war. The profit makers are rolling in luxury and the poor army starves. The honest and patriotic are impoverished while those who practice fraud and Toryism are getting rich."

Depressed by this report of conditions in America Jack set out for Washington's headquarters on the Hudson. Never had the posture of American affairs looked so hopeless. The governor had sold him a young mare with a white star in her forehead and a short, white stocking on her left fore leg, known in good time as the horse of destiny.

When he had crossed the King's ferry the mare went lame. A little beyond the crossing he met a man on a big, roan gelding. Jack stopped him to get information about the roads in the north.

"That's a good-looking mare," the man remarked.

"And she is better than she looks," Jack answered. "But she has thrown a shoe and gone lame."

"I'll trade even and give you a sound horse," the man proposed.

"What is your name and where do you live?" Jack inquired.

"My name is Paulding and I live at Tarrytown in the neutral territory."

"I accepted his offer not knowing that a third party was looking on and laying a deeper plan than either of us were able to penetrate," Jack used to say of that deal.

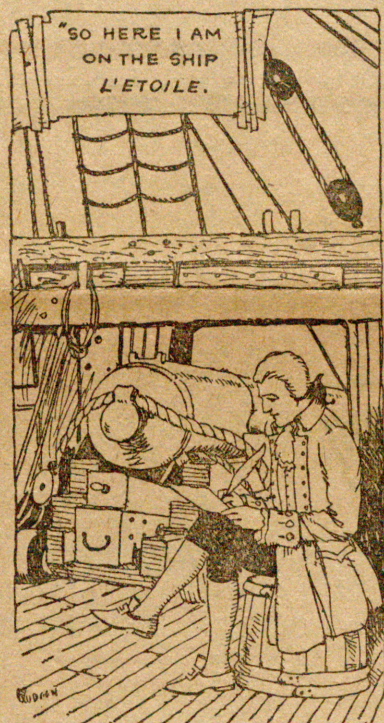

He approached the little house in which the commander in chief was quartered with a feeling of dread, fearing the effect of late developments on his spirit.

The young man wrote to Margaret in care of Franklin this account of the day which followed his return to camp:

"Thank God! I saw on the face of our commander the same old look of unshaken confidence. I knew that he could see his way and what a sense of comfort came of that knowledge! More than we can tell we are indebted to the calm and masterful face of Washington. It holds up the heart of the army in all discouragements. His faith is established. He is not afraid of evil tidings. This great, god-like personality of his has put me on my feet again. I was in need of it, for a different kind of man, of the name of Arnold, had nearly felled me."

"Sit down here and tell me all about Franklin," he said with a smile.

"I told him what was going on in Paris and especially of the work of our great minister to the court of Louis XVI.

"He heard me with deep interest and when I had finished arose and gave me his hand saying:

"Colonel, again you have won my gratitude. We must keep our courage."

"I told him of my unhappy meeting with Arnold."

"The man has his faults—he is very human, but he has been a good soldier," Washington answered.

"Solomon came into camp that evening. He was so glad to see me that he could only wring my hand and utter exclamations.

"How is the gal?" he asked presently.

"I told him of our meeting in Passy and of my fear that we should not meet again."

"Solomon is a man of faith. He never falters."

"He said to me: 'Don't worry. That gal has got a backbone. She ain't no rye straw. She's a-goin' to think it over.'"

"Neither spoke for a time. We sat by an open fire in front of his tent as the night fell. Solomon was filling his pipe. He swallowed and his right eye began to aim. I knew that some highly important theme would presently open the door of his intellect and come out.

"Jack, I been over to Albany," he said. "Had a long visit with Mirandy. They ain't no likelier women in Ameriky. I'll bet a pint o' powder an' a fish hook on that. Ye kin look fer 'em till yer eyes run but ye'll be obleeged to give up."

"He lighted his pipe and smoked a few whiffs and added: 'Knit seventy pair o' socks fer my regiment this fall.'"

"Have you asked her to marry you?" I inquired.

"No. 'Taint likely she'd have me," he answered. "She's had troubles enough. I wouldn't ask no women to marry me till the war is fit out. I'm liable to git all shot up any day. I did think I'd ask her but I didn't. Got kind o' skeered an' skittish when we sot down together, an' come to think it all over, 'twouldn't 'a' been right."

"You're wrong, Solomon," I answered. "You ought to have a home of your own and a wife to make you fond of. How is the Little Cricket?"

"Cunnin'est little shaver that ever lived," said he. "I got him a teeny waggin an' drew him down to the big medder an' back. He had a string hitched on to my waist an' he pulled an' hauled an' hollered whoa an' git ap till he were about as hoarse as a bull frog. When we got back he wanted to go all over me with a curry comb an' braid my mane."

"The old scout roared with laughter as he thought of the child's play in which he had had a part. He told me of my own people and next to their good health it pleased me to learn that my father had given all his horses—save two—to Washington. That is what all our good men are doing. So you will see how it is that we are able to go on with this war against the great British empire."

"That night the idea came to me that I would seek an opportunity to return to France in the hope of finding you in Paris. I applied for a short furlough to give me a chance to go home and see the family. There I found a singular and disheartening situation. My father's modest fortune is now a part of the ruin of war. Soon after the beginning of hostilities he had loaned his money to men who had gone into the business of furnishing supplies to the army. He had loaned them dollars worth a hundred cents. They are paying their debts to him in dollars worth less than five cents. Many, and Washington among them, have suffered in a like manner. My father has little left but his land, two horses, a yoke of oxen and a pair of slaves. So I am too poor to give you a home in any degree worthy of you."

"Dear old Solomon has proposed to make me his heir; but now that he has met the likely women I must not depend upon him. So I have tried to make you know the truth about me as well as I do. If your heart is equal to the discouragement I have heaped upon it I offer you this poor comfort. When the war is over I can borrow a thousand pounds to keep a roof over our heads and a fowl in the pot and pudding in the twifflers while I am clearing the way to success. The prospect is not inviting, I fear, but if, happily, it should appeal to you, I suggest that you join your father in New York at the first opportunity so that we may begin our life together as soon as the war ends. And now, whatever thoughts of me: I have loved you, but there are things which I have valued above my own happiness. If I cannot have you I shall have always the memory of the hours we have spent together and of the great hope that was mine."

CHAPTER XXVI

Arnold and Henry Thornhill.

Margaret and her mother returned to England with David Hartley soon after Colonel Irons had left France. The British commissioner had not been able to move the philosopher. Later, from London, he had sent a letter to Franklin seeking to induce America to desert her new ally. Franklin had promptly answered:

"I would think the destruction of our whole country and the extirpation of our people preferable to the infamy of abandoning our allies. We may lose all but we shall act in good faith."

Here again was a new note in the history of diplomatic intercourse.

Colonel Irons' letter to Margaret Hare, with part of which the reader is familiar, was forwarded by Franklin to his friend Jonathan Shipley, Bishop of St. Asaph, and by him delivered. Another letter, no less vital to the full completion of the task of these pages was found in the faded packet. It is from General Sir Benjamin Hare to his wife in London and is dated at New York, January 10, 1780. This is a part of the letter:

"I have a small house near the barracks with our friend Colonel Ware and the best of negro slaves and every comfort. It is now a loyal city, secure from attack, and, but for the soldiers, one might think it a provincial English town. This war may last for years and as the sea is, for a time, quite safe, I have resolved to ask you and Margaret to take passage on one of the first troop ships sailing for New York, after this reaches you. Our friend Sir Roger and his regiments will be sailing in March as I am apprised by a recent letter. I am, by this post, requesting him to offer you suitable accommodations and to give you all possible assistance. The war would only fight. His caution is maddening. His army is in a desperate plight, but he will not come out and meet us in the open. He continues to lean upon the strength of the hills. But there are indications that he will be abandoned by his own army."

City of Capua

The city of Capua of ancient Italy opened its gates to Hannibal after the Battle of Cannae, 216 B. C., and the army there went into winter quarters. Capua was the most luxurious city in Italy, and Hannibal's army was greatly enervated as a result of its residence there. When the Romans regained possession of Capua, 211 B. C., they scourged and beheaded the surviving senators who had not poisoned themselves before the surrender of the city. Only two persons, it is said, escaped: one, a woman who had prayed for the success of the Roman arms, and the other a woman who had succored some prisoners. The word "Capua" became a synonym for luxury and self-indulgence.

MOON AND OCEAN

"Hello, Mother Ocean," said Mr. Moon.

"Hello, Mr. Moon," said Mother Ocean.

"I've come over here to call upon you," said Mr. Moon.

"You're all dressed up in your full evening clothes," said Mother Ocean.

"Of course," said Mr. Moon. "I want to dress up in my very best to come and call on you."

"Oh, that is splendid, that is a great compliment," said Mother Ocean in her deep, low voice.

"Yes," continued Mr. Moon, "I was talking about it up in the sky and I said:

"Sky friends, I am going a-calling upon dear old Mother Ocean tonight. 'I want to look down upon her and talk to her and maybe she will let me have my picture taken in her beautiful ocean picture gallery. I would like her to have one. I don't want it myself."

"She could show it to a few friends and then she could destroy it."

"So, Sky friends, I want to look my best."

"You will wear your best evening clothes then, won't you?" my Sky friends asked me.

"And I told them that of course I would do this."

"Well, it is splendid to see you," said Mother Ocean. "You look so silvery and so handsome."

"Ah yes," said Mr. Moon. "I spoke to the Sky Jewelers before I came out this evening and I said to them:

"I should like to wear some gleaming silver which will shine beautifully as I am calling on Mother Ocean tonight."

"So they decked me forth with silver trimmings and that is why I look so silvery."

Mr. Moon looked down upon Mother Ocean and now he was reflected in the ocean—or, as he said, his picture was being taken.

And there were most beautiful silvery lights in the ocean, too, as the Ocean Photographer was showing up all Mr. Moon's silver jewels and finery.

After a time the waves came out to see what was happening and they seized some of Mr. Moon's silver which he had sent down to the ocean.

He did not mind. He wanted them to do this.

Then the tide which was coming in asked for some silver, too, so it could deck itself with silver as it went up, back and forth upon the beach.

Oh, what a silvery ocean there was that night. And Mother Ocean murmured words of happiness about her splendid visitor.

Mr. Moon was at his best.

Never had he looked so handsome and so fine. He looked magnificent.

"Today," said Mother Ocean, "my wave children dressed in their blue play dresses, and later they dressed up in their blue and purple and green and wore caps of blue and white."

"The sky cloud mountains looked at the children and spoke of how beautifully gay and rough they were!"

"But tonight they are quiet and beautiful and still."

Then some people came down to Mother Ocean and they went in bathing in the silvery water and in the moonlight. And Mother Ocean said:

"My children aren't the only ones to play and to frolic! But how they are admiring you, Mr. Moon."

Mr. Moon smiled and answered:

"But I dressed in my best for you and not for them, Mother Ocean."

They Went in Bathing.

seized some of Mr. Moon's silver which he had sent down to the ocean.

He did not mind. He wanted them to do this.

Then the tide which was coming in asked for some silver, too, so it could deck itself with silver as it went up, back and forth upon the beach.

Oh, what a silvery ocean there was that night. And Mother Ocean murmured words of happiness about her splendid visitor.

Mr. Moon was at his best.

Never had he looked so handsome and so fine. He looked magnificent.

"Today," said Mother Ocean, "my wave children dressed in their blue play dresses, and later they dressed up in their blue and purple and green and wore caps of blue and white."

"The sky cloud mountains looked at the children and spoke of how beautifully gay and rough they were!"

"But tonight they are quiet and beautiful and still."

Then some people came down to Mother Ocean and they went in bathing in the silvery water and in the moonlight. And Mother Ocean said:

"My children aren't the only ones to play and to frolic! But how they are admiring you, Mr. Moon."

Mr. Moon smiled and answered:

"But I dressed in my best for you and not for them, Mother Ocean."

They Went in Bathing.

Lesson for August 3

THE FIRST DISCIPLES OF JESUS

LESSON TEXT—John 1:35-51.

GOLDEN TEXT—"Jesus saith unto him, Follow me."—John 1:43.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Jesus Calls Four Helpers.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Jesus' First Followers.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—What It Means to Follow Jesus.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Winning Others to Christ.

Through the testimony of John the Baptist, his disciples were pointed to Jesus. This same testimony he gave the previous day, but he was not ashamed to repeat his sermon. His theme was the Lamb of God, the sin-bearer of the world.

I. Two of John's Disciples Follow Jesus (vv. 35-37).

As a result of the Baptist's testimony two of his disciples left him and followed Jesus. One of these disciples was Andrew (v. 40), and presumably the other was John. When the Baptist pointed out Jesus as the Lamb of God, the long-expected Messiah, these disciples sought further acquaintance with Jesus. In view of John's request, they looked upon the Lord. This look was sufficient to induce them to follow Jesus. They believed.

II. The Two Disciples Abiding With Jesus (vv. 38, 39).

1. Jesus' Question (v. 38). When Jesus saw the disciples following He most kindly inquired as to their object.

2. The Disciples' Reply (v. 39). They answered his question by inquiring as to His dwelling place. Their reply showed their desire to go apart privately where they could disclose their hearts to Him. Knowing their hearts, He invited them to His place of abode.

III. The Disciples Bringing Others to Jesus (vv. 40).

The very genius of Christianity is self-propagation. The usual method is to begin with those nearest us—home folks and relatives—and pass out to ever-widening circles. The disciples who were with Jesus in blessed fellowship go at once to tell others of the priceless treasure they have found.

1. Andrew Brings Peter (vv. 40-42). This is a beautiful sight of brotherly affection expressing itself in bringing another to Christ. The best place to begin our testimony for Christ is among our kinsfolk (Luke 8:39). This was a great piece of work for Andrew, for Peter became one of the pillars of the church of God.

2. Philip Brings Nathaniel (vv. 43-46). Christ found Philip the following day as he would go forth into Galilee. Philip followed Him in response to a personal invitation. As soon as Christ found Philip, Philip found Nathaniel and witnessed to him concerning the messiahship of Jesus. He said unto him, "We have found Him, of whom Moses in the law, and the prophets did write, Jesus of Nazareth" (v. 45). Nathaniel was somewhat skeptical, but he was honest. Philip had the wisdom not to argue with him, but brought him to Jesus. The one who is honest when brought into the presence of Jesus will soon have all doubts removed (John 7:17).

IV. Nathaniel, Seeing and Hearing Jesus, Testifies to His Divinity (vv. 47-51).

As soon as Nathaniel saw and heard Jesus all his doubts rolled away. He who acts upon the light given shall see greater things (vv. 50, 51). Angels ascending and descending upon the Son of Man with the open heavens, shows that Jesus Christ is the means of communication between earth and heaven (Heb. 10:19, 20; Eph. 2:18; Gen. 28:12).

This narrative concerning the experiences of the first disciples exhibits the following stages of Christian experiences:

1. Hearing About Jesus (v. 36). How important it is that the minister and teacher have a proper conception of Jesus as the sacrificial Lamb, the sin-bearer of the world.

2. Looking Upon Jesus (v. 36). It is necessary that the sinner definitely fix his attention upon Jesus.

3. Following Jesus (v. 37). It is not enough to merely look upon Him. There must be definite efforts to follow after, to inquire of Him.

4. Abiding With Jesus (v. 39). Those who earnestly look upon Jesus and inquire after Him He welcomes into blessed fellowship.

5. Witnessing for Jesus (vv. 41, 45). The first thing the one does who has come to Jesus is to begin to witness for Him.

6. Bringing Others to Jesus. The chief delight of the one who has come to know Jesus by a personal experience is to bring others to Him.

Success

"First of all," said President Garfield when a boy, "I must make myself a man; if I do not succeed in that I can succeed in nothing."

Good Temper

The difficult part of good temper consists in accommodation to the ill humor of others.

Duty Omitted

Every duty omitted obscures some truth that we should know.—Buskin.

Peter Ott narrowly escaped serious injury Thursday morning while assisting in hay making at the John Wagner place. He was on the load of hay when the fork which carried the hay to the loft jumped from the pulley coming down just beside Mr Ott striking his side, but luckily no deep wounds were inflicted and he is able to be about again.

Miss Clara Yunker is entertaining her cousin from Chicago this week.

Harry A. Cox, general contractor has purchased a Dodge special Sedan from the Dillman garage in Lemont.

The Bible Class of the M. E. church will give a "coffee" Thursday, August 7th in the afternoon in the church basement. Games will be played and a fine lunch served for twenty-five cents. Everyone is welcome.

Frank Powell of Palos Park will be employed at the Orland State Bank as assistant cashier.

Those who purchased lots in the Gee sub-division last week are: Carl Quigley, Walter Townsend of Oak Lawn, and Mr. Asa Martin of Chicago. Mr. Townsend began the excavating for his house Thursday. Mr. Gee has sold mostly all his lots and it proves to be a fine looking point of this village as also the sub-division of William Raney. Much credit is due to Mr. Gee and Mr. Raney.

Mrs. Wheeler and daughters Kathryn, Helen and Marian were entertained by the Feely's Thursday at Jackson Park at noon. They enjoyed a fine basket dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Rhames and Herman Rhames of North Dakota are visiting with friends here.

I. A. Cleveland, patrolman, has traded his Chevrolet coupe for a sedan from W. R. Schussler.

Christ Roemer has purchased a Ford touring car from W. H. Hockman who is the new Ford dealer here.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Rust and family spent Sunday at the Chas. Burkhardt, Sr., home.

Merril Cooper returned home after spending four weeks with relatives in Chicago.

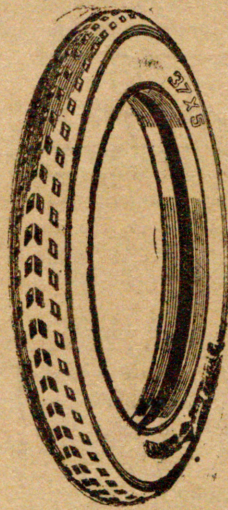

Mr. Clyde Rice and family of Tinley Park, spent Sunday at the Lester Kay home.

for Economical Transportation

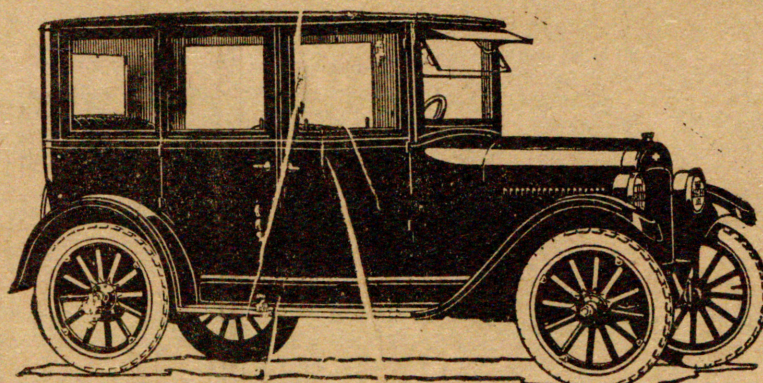

WE have been appointed the authorized dealers for the CHEVROLET LINE of cars and truck for Orland and surrounding territory. We have cars on display in our show rooms at Orland and are prepared to sign up orders at anytime.

BUY A CHEVROLET COUPE FOR GENERAL USE

The open touring car is best for general use, carrying passengers or perhaps miscellaneous bulky produce or merchandise, but for cold or rainy weather, and for church or social use the family needs a closed car, either a four passenger Coupe or the five Passenger Sedan. These closed cars are very finely made, furnished, upholstered and trimmed. The windows are of plate glass and can be lowered providing as much air as an open car, yet affording full protection against wind, rain, snow, or cold when raised.

Let us demonstrate this line of cars to you and convince you of its many excellent features.

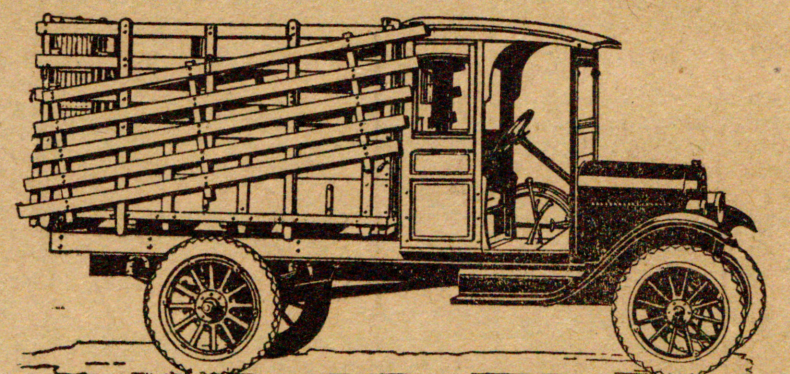

MOTOR IN COMFORT IN A CHEVROLET SEDAN

The Chevrolet 5 passenger Sedan is most popular for family use, because it affords comfort, weather protection and the home atmosphere all the year 'round for five people—yet may be economically operated with only one or two passengers.

Its power, reliability and low upkeep appeal to men. Women like its handsome lines, fine upholstery, plate glass windows with Ternerstedt regulators and fine finish.

Everybody appreciates its great value, so when you are in the market for a new Sedan do not fail to buy this type of car.

ESSENTIAL TO PROFITABLE FARMING

No business can succeed unless its product is profitably sold. Most farms have a fine production department, but no sales department. They grow crops and stock bought by buyers who set the price.

One of the chief reasons for this unprofitable situation is the average farmer's poor facilities for moving his crops or stock to the place where he can sell or ship to the best advantage.

The low priced, high grade, reliable Chevrolet truck was designed as a money saver and money maker for farmers and business houses needing fast low-cost haulage of heavy or bulky goods. Come in and let us give you full particulars on this truck.

We are prepared to demonstrate the cars and truck above shown at any time. We carry Chevrolet parts, tires, tubes, etc., and do all kinds of auto repair work.
